THE OPENING DISPLAY OF MISSES' AND GIRLS' GARMENTS IS EXCEPTIONALLY COMPREHENSIVE.

THE preference which misses and girls manifest for styles distinctively their own is admirably catered to in our New Spring Outer Garments. All that is best in the new modes, all that is correct in materials, whatever is wanted in novelty or the less extreme shades and combinations of materials has been provided.

MISSES'aSPRING SUITS-The short, jaunty coats are cut in various effects, with exceeding variety in treatment of the back of the garment; long pointed, and the postilion and spade effects, while many coats are in the short blouse style. Tiered skirts, in single and double draping; fancy lace and moire silk collars and cuffs lend a delightful newness to the coats that readily associates them with fashion and the coming of warmer weather.

MISSES' STREET AND EVENING DRESSES, of crepe de chine, plain and striped taffetas, chiffon, trimmed with shadow and other laces, chiffon and ribbons. Skints in tunic, spiral, tiered and bustle effects; bouffant draperies as much a feature as in women's styles.

DRESSES FOR THE INTERMEDIATE GIRLS-Designed and made especially for girls of "between ages," a period that has been more or less neglected-sizes 13, 14, and 15. Fashions that will appeal especially to girls and their mothers. There are dresses for all occasions, in many styles, colors, and materials, plain shades and combinations. Materials are figured crepes, flowered crepes, linens, reps, figured voiles, white crepes, shepherd checks, taffeta and moire

GIRLS' DRESSES, of ginghams, linens, reps, figured voiles, piques, tissues, flowered organdy, crinkled crepe and French percales, in numerous attractive styles and colorings. Most of these are in the effective and desirable long waist styles; many have fancy collars of some kind; and the skirts vary from the single to the triple-tiered styles.

SMALL GIRLS' DANCING AND PARTY FROCKS, of voiles, fine lawns, nets, shadow laces; some in styles of elaboration, others in neat, plain effects, whose sheerness and beauty of material is all that is required. New shirred shoulders and deep yokes are the new effects, and the deep ribbon girdles; charmingly adorned with pink and blue rosebuds. Trimmings consist of pretty laces and insertions applied in various ways.

MISSES', GIRLS', AND CHILDREN'S COATS, of wolfine cloth, serges, worsteds, and shepherd checks, Plain shades with colored collar and cuffs; plain blues with selfcolored belts and fancy buttons. Cut-away effects with and without belted backs; box styles with wide belts; belts are used on nearly every model, either largely or merely as a suggestion by some simple strapping.
